Club President's Message -

A couple of weeks ago a member called me and felt he had been shot down by another member. I certainly hope that is not the case, but naturally there is no way to tell unless the possible offender comes forward. With several new members, some younger members, and maybe some old guys like me that sometimes we need a reminder. So it brings me to the subject for the month:

Personal Responsibility

I've never seen it written in any RC club rules or regulations, but it is an accepted fact that if you cause another flyer to crash, damage personal property, or God forbid hurt someone, you are responsible. We participate in a very hazardous sport/hobby and the only way we can survive together is to know the other members will step forward and make it right. Say yes I did it; I will take care of it.

To expand this just a little further, everyone has borrowed a nut or bolt, a wheel collar, or propeller or something to get you back in the air for the rest of the day. Ladies and gentlemen, these are not gifts. These are to be returned or better yet, replaced with new items. They cost money. In most cases not a lot, but you are still personally responsible to see they are returned or replaced.

Enough of the soap box.

See you at the field.

Jack

Committee Reports

Safety Committee – Chuck Elkins

Chuck noted that everyone had been safe.

Jack mentioned that he had a loose shirt on and the prop sucked the shirt into the prop. He asked all to be careful and tuck in their shirts.

Greg P noted that he had just returned from a fly in and someone with a transmitter neck strap leaned over a turning prop on a big bird. The strap caught on the prop and yanked his head towards the prop. Luckily the prop cut the strap before pulling his head into the prop!

Everyone learn from this! Be extra careful of loose items around moving props.

Orientation Committee – Matt Findley

Matt was not present

Field Marshall – Bob Schofield

Bob was not present

Jack noted that he had talked to Bob about the cracks in the runway and Bob was looking into repairs. Jack also noted that we would be cutting grass regularly in the helicopter and electric area.

Site Retention Committee – Greg Poppel

Greg had nothing new to report

Jack asked Greg to take sound readings for us, and noted some airplanes seemed excessively loud.
